News for Thought

Mr. Semmler has been so kind as to grant me the privilege of publishing an article from time to time in the News-Bulletin. I plan to make these articles of general interest to you and really news for thought. It might be well for you to keep the items of this series for future reference as all the articles will have to do with the general theme Education and will be more or less related. The material contained here-in will be the product of my professional training, my reading, and my school experience. The dominant note in my point of view is due to Dr. H. C. Morrison of the University of Chicago. Dr. Morrison has spent his life experimenting in Education and last spring published a book, (The Practice of Teaching in the Secondary School, The University of Chicago Press, 1926, 661 pages, price $4.00) which gives his findings together with a new point of view in Education. He has given expression to his point of view in an Educational system which has been used for the last six years in the University of Chicago Experimental School. This new system is giving results which our own traditional system could never give with the best of teachers. It seems so important to me that I must share it with you. I will appreciate your criticisms, suggestions, and questions at any time. Those of general interest will be published. Address them to Mrs. Clarence Uhl, Mokena, Illinois.

Why Do your Children Attend School?

The first day of school gave the Mokena children a chance to answer this question. They were asked to explain in detail just why they were attending school. I read the High School papers. Some said they were attending school to get an education some said they were attending school in order to learn, but they did not say what they expected to learn. These answers show that your children have a very hazy and indefinite reason for attending school. The other answers were something like this—I am attending school now so I will have an easier job later on, or I am attending school now so that I will have a better paying job later on. Do you think the Public should support a school in order to help the few who are fortunate enough to go to high school to get easier, better paying jobs later on? From my experience I would say that these answers are representative of the present day high school child. While in high school myself, a speaker came to our school and gave a little talk urging us to attend college because of the increased earning power it would give us. He illustrated his lecture with an attractive, highly colored chart. I do not wonder where the children get these vague and sometimes selfish ideas and ideals about why they are attending school. They are echoes of the home life, the school life, and from the rest of their environment. It shows that the parents, the children, and sometimes the teachers do not think clearly and definitely on this all-important and expensive proposition. You citizens have a right to say and should say just what you wish the children of this community to be like. You know that any intelligent child with his co-operation can be made into any kind of an adult you wish. But you should say exactly and specifically just what you wish this child to be like.

Then hire teachers who know how to produce these desirable changes in your children. Allow the teachers to select the materials by which they will produce these changes. Tell your children what the teachers are trying to do for them. Tell them every day and three times a day that the teacher can not give them an education except as they desire it wholeheartedly. Make their educational desires specific so that the children will know just exactly why they are attending school. Help them acquire the attitude of wishing these changes were in their lives so much that they will come to the teachers for aid rather than have the teachers have to go to them and plead with them, and bribe them to study and get what they came for just as though education were some terrible brand of Castor oil.

If you know the average child today, you know that he almost has to be hired to study. If he has older brothers and sisters he is just as liable to hand in one of their old book reports as to do his own. He often seems so lazy that he will borrow or copy another student's problems or anything for that matter.

Well what is the trouble? I think I have the answer and I think I have the remedy. These are the problems that I intend opening up for discussion in this column this year. First of all you have not set up these definite objectives for the teachers. This is no ten minute job. It will take your community, your county, your state, the nation, and the world several years to do this. But now is the time to start. Think of this problem while you do your routine work, discuss it at the table, at your parties and social gatherings. Maybe your Parent-Teacher Association could spend some of its time discussing specifically what sort of adults you wish them to be. Possibly some will say that they have already done all that needs to be done. I want to be fair and honest in describing the situation but as I see it, here is what you have done. Your ancestors believed in Formal Discipline, that studying any hard subject would discipline your mind just like work would harden a muscle and make it strong. They believed the mind was divided into certain faculties such as the faculty for memorizing, another for reasoning. They chose subjects to strengthen each faculty. Algebra was chosen to develop reasoning, Geometry, which is really the science of measuring the earth and which was once a practical thing for re-dividing the Nile valley after a flood, was retained in the curriculum because it too was considered a good hard subject by which to discipline the reasoning faculty. Latin was supposed to help our faculty of memory so although it was seen then to have very little practical value for the average American citizen it too has been retained in most high school curriculums for this definite reason. The theory of Formal Discipline experimentally had its props knocked from under it. So those who had grown accustomed to studying these subjects and felt that they had helped them looked about for another theory. It is known as the Transfer of Training Theory. Experimentally it has been proven of little value. In fact, it may work negatively as well as positively and usually does not work at all. That is, if you do certain tasks in algebra for a year you will then know how to reason in future life situations. You also have other subjects in your curriculum, and many good subjects too which had an interesting time getting into the school curriculum. Some future time I will trace their histories for you. But now my task continued on back page.

Alpine Awaits New Boom as 900 Acres Are Subdivided

Alpine is beginning to wonder if it is destined to have a place on the map since the Bartlett Realty Company of Chicago has begun to survey their holdings of 900 acres in this section preparatory to subdividing same into acre tracts and lots. Three surveyors arrived Wednesday morning and have been on the job since surveying. It is expected that this property will be on the market soon.

A route for the proposed Southwest Highway has been surveyed three times this summer. This whole region is in the path of a gigantic boom and with the construction of the new highway a direct line to Chicago will be offered which will be a big factor in the upbuilding of this whole section. With the extension of the gas mains from Blue Island by the Public Service Company to Palos Park, Tinley Park, Mokena and Frankfort another big progressive step will be made adding more to the upbuilding of these communities.

Mokena, Frankfort, Tinley to Get Gas From Pub. Service

Tinley Park, Palos Park, Mokena and Frankfort are in line for gas from Blue Island to be furnished by the Public Service Co., who have been given franchise rights in these villages. A hearing was held before the Public Utilities Commission at Springfield last Thursday relative to the issuance of a service permit to this company to lay gas mains in these communities. Soon as the certificate is issued by the commission which may be within the next 10 days or two weeks, operations will be started at once on laying the mains.

It is proposed to lay six inch gas mains from Blue Island along 147th street to Tinley Park and 4 inch mains from there to Mokena and from there to Frankfort. No exact date can be set as to when the gas will be turned on as the work of digging the trenches and laying the mains will depend a great deal on weather conditions. One thing is assured however and that is that gas is assured for these communities.

Drunken Driver Draws Heavy Fine

A drunken automobile driver was arrested Sept. 28th on Lincoln highway near the farm of Willard Owen by deputy Edward Geuther of Frankfort. The driver, John Rea of Lincoln, Neb., was given an immediate hearing before Justice of the Peace, Willard Owen and was fined $100 and costs, assessed at $5.45. Unable to pay the fine, he and his car were held in custody until a sister of his in Chicago Heights appeared and paid the fine.

Driving a car while intoxicated is rightly regarded a serious offense against society, as it endangers the lives and property of others using the highway. If you drive a car, let bootleg whiskey severely alone—or take the consequences.

Brotherhood Active

The Brotherhood of the St. John Evangelical church of Mokena is preparing for a big program of activities for this fall and winter. At the September meeting at the church church last Monday it was decided to start an indoor horse shoe pitching contest to determine the champion player. Two teams have been organized, the "Red Sox" under the captaincy of Rev. W. J. Cramer and the "All Stars" under the captaincy of Albert Cappel. The first game will be played at the October meeting. A banquet will be served at the close of the contest. A minstrel is also on the program.

Closing Dance

The closing summer season series of dances at the Mokena pavilion held Saturday night, October 9th. Music by Formento's 7 singing syncopators. Everyone is invited.

Mokena to Select Fire Truck Saturday

On Saturday evening, Oct. 2nd a meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. at the village hall of all the subscribers to the Fire Truck Fund.

The committee that has been appointed to investigate fire trucks of various kinds is ready to make their final report. At this meeting the subscribers to the fund will also be requested to vote on the type of truck that should be purchased.

For the benefit of the subscribers, the committee gives the following information:

Ford one ton truck with standard equipment consisting of two chemical tanks, ladders and necessary hand tools can be purchased for about $2100.00.

The same equipment mounted on any other ton and one-quarter truck such as the Reo or International will cost about $3150.00.

Subscribers are urged to attend the meeting and express their views and also cast their vote for whatever equipment they favor. All votes must be cast between 7:30 and 9:00 p. m., as voting will be discontinued at 9:00 p. m.

L. G. Bruder Wins In R.I. Ticket Fight

L. G. Bruder of Mokena has been successful in his fight with ride school ticket between Mokena and Joliet at a special rate and he has been notified that the Rock Island will issue such tickets between the two points for $8.17, being the same rate as is now effective between Mokena and Midlothian. Heretofore school children wishing to attend the Joliet high school had to pay the regular fare of 40 cents each way. Mr. Bruder took his fight up with the Interstate Commerce Commission and Senator R. J. Barr. He is now seeking to have the Rock Island issue a 25 ride ticket between these two stations. The community owes Mr. Bruder a vote of thanks for his efforts in behalf of the interests of the students attending Joliet High school from here.

Tinley Pastor Is Honored on 24th Anniversary

Fifty-five visiting pastors attended the meeting of the northern and eastern Illinois district conference held at the Zion Lutheran church in Tinley Park.

On Tuesday evening the 24th anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. Albert Buddenhagen at the Zion Lutheran church was celebrated. Rev. Mr. Buddenhagen first entered the ministry at Pittsville, Wisconsin serving the charge at that place one year following this he accepted a call from the Zion Lutheran church and has served this congregation continuously for 24 years.

At the conference service on Tuesday evening the anniversary was fittingly celebrated. The Rev. Wm. Krebs of Rockfalls, Illinois, a son of a former pastor of the Zion Lutheran congregation at Tinley, preached the anniversary sermon. A quartet under the direction of Mrs. John Boeyer sang a number of selections. Miss Huerta Buddenhagen, daughter of the pastor sang a solo.

Rev. Mr. Buddenhagen was presented with gifts of money from the Northern Illinois conference as well as from his own congregation, Fred Hick representing the congregation. The Ladies Aid of the Zion Lutheran church was represented by Mrs. August Mesenbrink who presented the pastor with a beautiful basket of roses on behalf of the society. A pastors chorus under the direction of Rev. Mr. Bunge of Clinton, Ia., sang. Rev. Mr. Kuethe of Sterling, Iowa sang a solo. Addresses of congratulation were made by the following: Prof. Knappe, Clinton, Iowa; Rev. M. Doermann, Blue Island; Rev. H. Harms, Midlothian; Rev. Mutschmann, Gifford, Ill.; Rev. S. Gerlach, Sibley, Ill.; Rev. G. A. Fandrey, President of the Synod of Iowa and Other states; Rev. Theodore Albert of Shumway, Illinois and others. At the closing of the service Rev. Mr. Buddenhagen responded with appropriate remarks.

Former New Lenox Boy Dies In Joliet

Boyd Knickerbocker, aged 23, a former New Lenox boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Knickerbocker, died at Joliet Sept. 23rd. Dilation of the heart is given as the cause of death. He is survived by his widow, infant daughter Violet, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Knickerbocker of New Lenox, three sisters, Mrs. Marion Hubert, and Mrs. Pauline Baird of Joliet, Mrs. Maxine Batson of New Lenox, and his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Millis Knickerbocker of Mokena. Funeral services were held from the Chamberlain & Sloan chapel, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. E. E. Hastings officiated. Burial in Oakwood.

Defeat New Lenox

With the close of the baseball season, foot ball is claiming sport fans attention. Last Sunday Mokena played New Lenox at Schiek's field, Mokena and defeated them with a score of 24 to 0. This Sunday Mokena plays a fast Chicago Heights team at Mokena.

Mokena Poultry Man Wins Prizes

The Marti Poultry Farm of Mokena, Ervin Marti, manager, carried off the following prizes at the Monee Fair last week:

Barred Rocks, 1st and 2nd; on White Wyandottes 1st prize; R. I. Reds, 1st, 2nd and 3rd; White Leghorns, 2nd and 3rd; White Rocks, 1st prize; Old hens and baby chicks, 2nd; French Dragoon Pigeons, 1st and 2nd; Blue Swedish Ducks, 1st prize.

Mokena and Orland to Get A. & P. Stores

Mrs. Ethel Fisher, widow of the late Walter Fisher, has leased her store building in Mokena to the A. & P. Tea Co., who are remodeling the store and expect to open in a few weeks. Who the local manager will be has not been announced.

At Orland the A. & P. expect to open a store in the building at one time occupied by R. M. Cooper it is reported.

thanking all who had a part in the celebration.

Prof. John Fritsche represented the Northern Illinois in their presentation of a monetary gift.

A big fellowship gathering was held at the Saenger hall. The Ladies Aid served a wonderful feed.

The host of friends of the honored pastor extend hearty congratulations and hope he will continue to serve his charge for years to come.

Rain Ties Up Bridge Building

The Tinley Park-Mokena highway has been closed all summer on account of the building of a new concrete bridge and motorists have been obliged to detour to get to Tinley Park. The contractors have been working on this job all summer and it would seem that the job should have been done by now so the road could be used again.

Commissioner Emil Cappel says continued rainy weather has hampered the contractors greatly in their work. The bridge is 40 feet long and 20 feet wide. The building of the abutments took much time as much excavation work had to be done. A concrete top has to be laid yet. Commissioner Cappel thinks it will be six weeks or two months before the bridge will be ready for traffic.

Reduce Rates

Effective on October 1st the following readjustment of rates on long distance calls of the Bell Telephone Company will mean a big saving to Mokena subscribers or patrons of the local exchange: To Detroit the basic station to station rate will be $1.45 instead of $1.70 to Pittsburgh $2.10 instead of $2.70; to New York $3.45 instead of $4.70; to San Francisco, $8.25 instead of 11.90.

To Vote on

Forest Preserve

Will County voters will be asked to vote on five special propositions at the election next month. The establishment of a Forest Preserve is one of the important questions to be decided. An educational campaign is being launched by the advocates of the measure showing why a Forest Preserve is needed in Will County.

Will open New Store

Mrs. Florence Hamilton has rented the former drug store building in Mokena and will open a corset and fancy goods shoppe. Mrs. Hamilton and family are living in the same building.

MOKENA M. E. CHURCH NOTES

Glen T. Beatty, Pastor

The pastor leaves for annual conference at Freeport Ill., this week and cannot return in time for services Sunday evening. Our people are urged to attend the other evening services of the village.

Sunday School will be held at 10:30 A. M. We have some new teachers in our school and are planning on having a fine time all during the winter months. One week from Sunday, October 10th, we plan to rearrange the Sunday School. We urge all to be here on that day, our Rally Day. Bro. Beatty will be with us at that time.

The Crusades

A DWARF—misshapen, bearded, ungainly—sat on a lean, shaggy donkey, in the midst of a shrieking multitude and brandished a huge crucifix above his head. His shouted exhortations were echoed and re-echoed by the crowd.

The dwarf was known as Peter the Hermit. He was pleading with his Eleventh-century audience to wrest the Holy Land from the grip of the Mahometan infidels. And so eloquently did the little priest urge his cause that he aroused a world-wide wave of enthusiasm and set afoot a mighty international agitation which endured for centuries.

Mahomet's successors held the Holy Land. Christians on pious pilgrimages to the Savior's birthplace and tomb were robbed, insulted and even murdered by these Moslems. Sacred shrines were profaned or destroyed. These outrages aroused Peter the Hermit; and, in the latter part of the Eleventh century, he went from country to country, urging all Christians to sweep the Holy Land, and especially the Holy City, Jerusalem, clear of Mahometans and to avenge the injuries perpetrated on Christian pilgrims. Pope Urban II approved the plan and promised remission of sins to all who should enter on this holy war.

All Europe went mad with religious zeal. "Id Deus vult!" ("God wills it!") was their war cry. Thousands and hundreds of thousands donned the blood-red cross which was to be the badge of the mission.

Debtors, felons, servants, monks and other classes bound in one way or another were freed on promise to march against the infidels. An enormous international army was raised for the purpose, its chief commander being Godfrey du Bouillon, duke of Lorraine. But early in 1096, before the organized expedition could get under way, a disorganized mob of 200,000 men, women and children, under the personal leadership of Peter the Hermit, started across Europe for Jerusalem. They never reached their destination. Without discipline, food or sufficient arms, they straggled on eastward, their ranks daily thinning through desertion, disease and famine, until of all that vast motley horde a bare 7,000 reached the eastern banks of the Bosphorus. There they were set upon and literally cut to pieces by the Turks.

On August 15, 1096, Godfrey de Bouillon's host began its march to Palestine, reaching Constantinople on Christmas day. Wrangles of various sorts, disputes as to precedence in command, bad management and insufficient supplies hampered their movements from first to last. The expedition, which started with so holy an aim, began to feel the influence of politics, corruption and personal ambition. Nevertheless, held together by Godfrey's genius, they defeated, one after another, the Mahometan armies sent against them, and at last laid siege to Jerusalem itself. The Holy City fell after about a month's defense, and the victorious crusaders put to death in horrible fashion every Mahometan defender they could lay their hands on. Moslem men, women and even babies were slaughtered mercilessly by these upholders of the Gospel of Peace, and Godfrey was chosen king of Jerusalem.

A second crusade, urged on by St. Bernard and led by Louis VII of France, followed a few years later. An unsuccessful effort was made to capture Damascus, and, altogether, the venture was without any real results. For eighty-eight years the Christians held Jerusalem. Then the Moslems recaptured it.

In 1190 a third great crusade was begun, the prime mover and leader being King Richard I of England, surnamed Coeur de Lion (Lion Heart). Again the leaders quarreled among themselves and swerved from the true purpose of their mission. They won a few barren victories, but failed wholly to win Jerusalem.

Crusade followed crusade, none achieving true success. At length the belief spread that the expeditions failed because of the sins and worldliness of the men who embarked upon them. Churchmen declared that the Holy Land could be snatched from the infidel by none but innocent hands. Innocence then, as now, was not a common commodity among men of war, so it was decided to raise an army of little children and send them against the Moslems. The new venture was known as the Children's crusade. It was the saddest, most pitiful tragedy in all history.

Fifty thousand children, some of them mere babies, set out for Palestine in 1212. They went, assured by their parents and by the priests, that theirs was the solemn privilege of restoring Palestine to Christianity. They set forth with high hopes. But they starved, fell ill, were lost in strange lands, died or were sold as slaves.

The crusades were the most glorious, sublime failures in the annals of the world. They constituted a mistake that can never wholly be condemned. They accomplished nothing permanent, yet they did much to Christianize, unite and teach the brotherhood of man to Europe's warring nations.

They remain forever a monument of the life-sacrifices—magnificent, if futile—that men have made and ever will make, for their faith.

Cold distributed on the same general principle as heat is an innovation of the newer apartment dwellings in some of the large cities. Instead of installing bulky machinery in individual apartments for useless refrigeration purposes, one central machine is used in the basement, just as one furnace or boiler is used. Hartford City, Ind.—Doing housework and taking care of a sick woman proved to be too much for Ethel May Snider, R. R. 1 of Hartford City, until she started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Overwork had so undermined her health that she had to give up all outside work, and when she saw this medicine advertised in the "Star" and other papers, she went to druggist and got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She took it regularly, was greatly benefited and now feels very much better.

Ethel May Snider's experience is similar to that of thousands of other women in all walks of life, who have sent testimonials to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass.

Among those who praise the Compound are young girls who have been enabled to attend school regularly—working girls who have gained strength and endurance so necessary to them, housewives and mothers who have found that the tonic effect of the Compound has enabled them to perform their daily tasks more easily.

Vienna Theatergoers

Put Shakespeare First

A referendum of the 2,000 yearly subscribers to the State Drama (Burgtheater) in Vienna, placed Shakespeare in the list of favorites of the serious theater-going public.

The plays voted for the next season were "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Merchant of Venice," "Macbeth," "Coriolanus," and "The Taming of the Shrew." Oscar Wilde was returned second, notably with his "Lady Windermere's Fan," while Schiller, Ibsen, Schnitzler, Rostand, Hebbel and Grillparzer follow in the list.

Shakespeare and Wilde between them obtained 1,219 of the 2,000 votes cast.

Lesson for October 3

ISRAEL JOURNEYING TOWARD CANAAN

LESSON TEXT—Numbers 10:11-36.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come thou with us and we will do thee good.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Journey of Long Ago.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Journeying in the Wilderness.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Israel Learned in the Wilderness.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How God Guides His People.

Israel remained almost one year at Sinai. It was a veritable schooling for them. Their stay was necessary.

1. To allow them to recuperate from the effects of many years of slavery.

2. To train them morally and spiritually for the great work before them.

The wonderful transactions at Sinai served to inspire them with courage and hope, for through them they came to know God as their king and themselves as His covenant people.

3. To have them thoroughly organized.

This was not only necessary for the march, but for the warfare in gaining possession of the land of Canaan.

1. Marching From Sinai at the Hand of Moses (vv. 11-28).

The nation had now grown to a great host—the army itself of 603,550 strong. Allowing three persons to every soldier, there would be 1,810,650.

The army was organized into four great sections or divisions with three tribes to each division. The Levites were organized on the basis of the three sons of Aaron—Gershon, Kohath and Merari. The Kohathites had the principal place about the tabernacles—charge of the most precious things.

The Gershonites had the next place of honor, while the drudgery fell upon the Merarites.

1. The signal given (v. 11).

The lifting of the cloud from off the sanctuary was the signal for the camp to be broken and the march to begin.

2. The signal given to rest (v. 12).

Just as the sign to march must be recognized, so the sign to rest must be obeyed.

3. The Commander (v. 13).

God was the Commander through His servant, Moses.

4. The order of the march (vv. 14-18).

As they marched the division led by Gershon and Merari bearing the coarser part of the tabernacle. Then marched Reuben's division, followed by the Kohathites bearing the sacred utensils of the tabernacle. These were followed by the division of Ephraim and Dan. The ark occupied a central position with the moving caravan.

II. Moses Seeking the Help of Hobab (vv. 29-32).

Hobab was a shrewd child of the desert. Moses thought therefore that his knowledge thereof would be helpful. The children of Israel were going forth under the guiding care of the Almighty. Surely He could be trusted. Certainly He knew that dreadful wilderness.

1. "We will do thee good."

Moses had faith in God's promises to Israel and could well assure Hobab that good would come to him by identifying himself with God's covenant people.

2. "Thou mayest be to us instead of eyes."

Moses still insisted that Hobab should go along, not only for the good he could get but for the good he might do.

III. Marching to Canaan With the Lord as Leader (vv. 33-36).

Even though Hobab did go with Israel, we never hear of his leading the people. The Lord will not have it so. Observe:

1. "The ark of the covenant of the Lord went before them" (v. 33).

The ark, the symbol of the divine presence, moved out of its place in the midst of the camp and took its place at the head.

2. The cloud of the Lord rested upon them (v. 34).

This was an indication that God was not only leading, but governing His people and protecting them.

3. The Lord's vindication (vv. 35, 36).

Moses' unbelief caused a reproach unto the Lord. This action on the part of God vindicated His leadership. Moses gave recognition to this act of God in identifying himself with His people. When the ark rested and set forward, he exclaimed, "Rise up, Lord, and let thine enemies be scattered and let them that hate Thee flee before Thee," and when it rested—"Return, O Lord, unto the many thousands of Israel."

God's Love

We are taught to think that God's love is the biggest thing in the universe. Let us think of some of the biggest things we know, and then we will lift our eyes upon one that is bigger than all.—J. H. Jowett.

Happiness Counts Most

The will of God respecting us is that we shall live by each other's happiness and life, not by each other's misery. . . . men help each other by their joy, not by their sorrow.

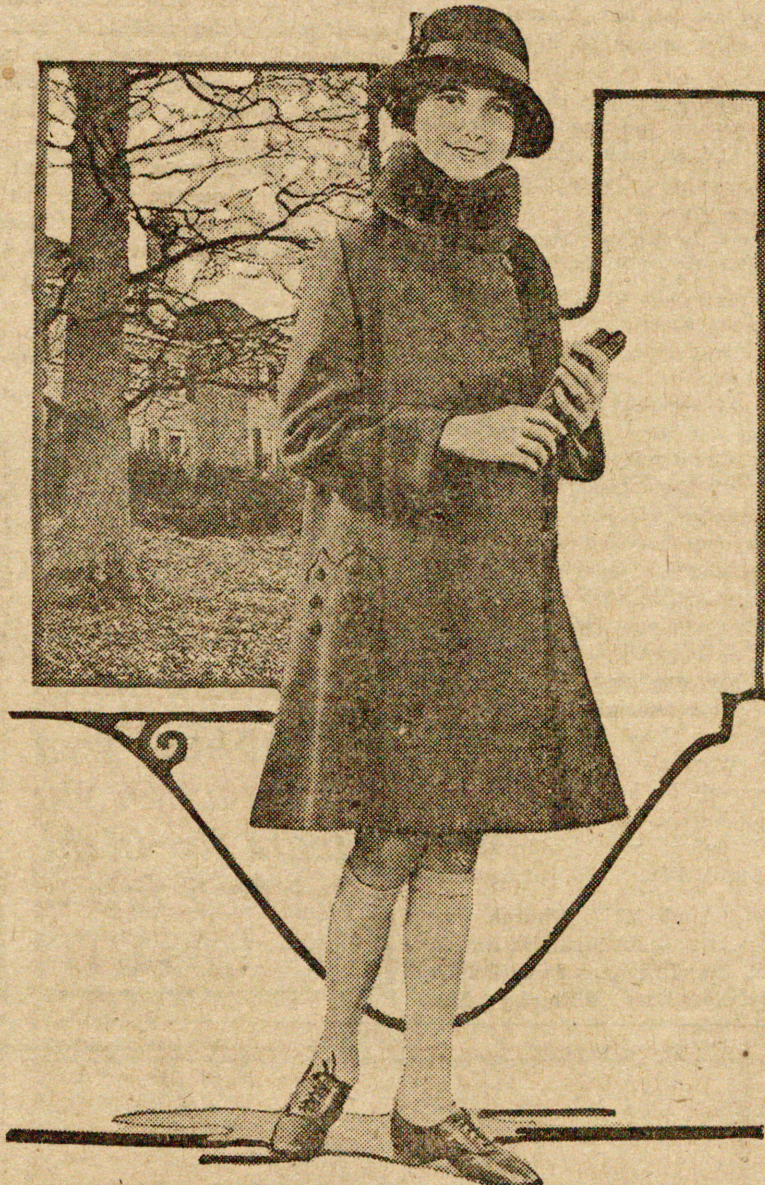

TOPCOATS FOR SCHOOLGIRLS; SCHOOL FROCKS OF JERSEY

IN THE realm of junior fashions, coats tell a very different story from frocks for the coming months. In accordance with latest dictates the wraps young girls wear are quite conservative and sedate in appearance, while dresses are quite fussed up with all sorts of crafty handwork and gay trimmings.

If the little girl in the picture would let us catch a glimpse of the frock she is wearing, it would, very likely, be much better-trimmed and elaborated with ways and byways of business life. All this, because fashion insists that whether it be in study hour, playtime or any practical occasion, we must dress in gay woollens.

Just now there is a furore for wool jersey and not without reason, for of all materials none gives better service or makes up more satisfactorily. So jersey cloth it is, according to the decision of the mode, and that in colors of irresistible attractiveness. Chiefest among the popular colorings for cunning detail, perhaps have a clever narrow belt with a cunning buckle 'n' everything—but mark the simplicity and styling of the coat. Of the superior quality kind is this coat. The material is of the best, being a handsome bolivia cloth. It may be navy, wine, French blue, brown or jungle green, for each is fashionable for fall and winter. One outstanding feature is the flare hemline, achieved by godets inset in a tailored way. Other interesting style highlights are its fur collar, broad turnback cuffs and single button fastening.

It is a noteworthy fact that the new cloakings are unusually good-looking practical worsted frocks are reds of every degree, especially channel red and the deep wine tones. Equally fascinating are the new greens, placing emphasis on jungle green, and as to blues, navy competes with truly lovely French blues, also royal. Cinnamon color jersey is as smart as smart can be, but no more so than are the handsome nasturtium colors which are now so much in evidence. Which all goes to prove that there will be no lack of color when it comes to dresses planned for practical everyday wear.

One of the endearing qualities of wool jersey is that in its suppleness and of finest texture. Favored weaves stress, first and foremost, chinchilla cloth, emphasizing cinnamon color, French blue, navy, various reds and many shades of green, notably jungle green. There are also included tweeds of every coloring.

Very interesting linings of suede-finished fabrics complement coats of chinchilla. Thus warmth and attractiveness is combined in the school-girl's coat. One does not have to draw on imagination to sense the charm of a navy blue chinchilla lined with red.

Splashes of color will brighten school room and campus throughout the coming months, also the high-it yields most gracefully to any handling. Just now everything that can be is being shirred. As to wool jersey it puts forth its best appearance under this treatment. For proof of its eminently satisfactory adaptability to the shirring process, study this picture of a typical autumn 1926 school-girl frock. See how the necessary skirt fullness is massed so cleverly to the front by means of much shirring. Then, too, see the shirred effect across the front shoulder seams. This model is developed in wine color with a beige crepe collar and tie.

VILLAGE BOARD NEWS

A village board meeting was held at the village hall on Tuesday evening, September 7th. This was the first meeting held since June and aroused considerable interest. After the preliminary business had been disposed of, Trustee Ferrin gained the floor and insisted that it should not be necessary to hold a board meeting in order to grant a building permit, and a building committee was finally appointed consisting of trustees Lysen, Conway, and Schipper. With the approval of this committee, the applicant may obtain a permit from the village clerk, Miss Hildebrand. Building permits were issued to Fred Luedtke and Erwin Rolfe and a moving permit to Louis Lange.

Mr. Puller of the Ivory Oil Company was introduced by Mr. Palmer and endeavored to show that the Company meant to be on the square in its dealings with the village. Payment of the remaining Fire Department debt having been promised by the Masonic Cemetery and nothing having been received, Mr. Biggs the village attorney was given power to collect. Applications for sidewalk grades were received from Fred Luedtke and William Teason. Trustee Ferrin asked for more time to work on the Zone Ordinance as it is quite a complicated.

Mrs. Ralph English, Sr., fell and broke her arm recently. Her daughter, Mrs. Suttis of Verdun, Illinois is taking care of her. Gladys Crandall Ruth Mitchell, Herbert Stewart and Edward Pfahm have returned to their school duties. Those entering High School this semester are Edward Lysen, George Krause, Alfred Bodin, Dortha Coughlin and Mary Bishop. Everett Tesnow is attending business college.

The former pastor of Orland, Professor Neumeier, took charge of the services last Sunday morning and was ably supported by the Junior Choir under the direction of Miss Ruth Mitchell. "How big is your religion?" was the question voiced in his sermon. Although there were only a few in the congregation, it seems we had quality instead of quantity to represent us. We have heard many fine things about the services last Sunday morning.

Herbert Hildebrand has been very ill with typhoid fever, but is recovering gradually.

ORLAND M. E. CHURCH
Elmer L. Satterlund Pastor
Moving picture Friday October 1, Colleen Moore in "So-Big" a story of mother love. Aesop Fable comedy.

Friday October 8th. Picture is, "Yes Sir That's My Baby". Douglas MacLean in an uproarious farce and Aesop Fable comedy.

No service on Sunday October 3rd. No Sunday school session either. This is "Annual Conference" Sunday and all Rock River pastors are at the Annual conference which meets at Freeport this year.

Services beginning the new Conference year on Sunday October 10th. Let us make this first Sunday in the new Conference year an inspiring one.

A new series of Sunday morning subjects will be begun very soon, upon the completion of the discourses of the Parables of Jesus. The pastor will attempt to discuss various aspects of the vital theme of worship and also hopes to have the Rev. Paul Sanders of Worth Community Church tell the story of the remarkable transformation which has taken place in this church.

The Regular Quarterly Official Board meeting will be held on Tuesday evening October 12th at 7:30 P. M. All members of the Board are expected to be present at the first Official Board meeting of the new Conference year.

The Women's Guild Bazaar and Supper will be held on October 14 at the church. Do not miss this annual event of significance in our church life.

The Orland M. E. Church was represented on "Annual Visitation" Day at the Lake Bluff Orphanage last Friday Sept. 24th, by Mrs.

Betsy Austin and Mrs. James Greer. These ladies report a most enjoyable trip despite the bad weather.

The young people of the church and congregation spent an enjoyable "social evening" at the David Agate home on Wednesday evening September 22nd.

For the next few weeks the Sunday evening services center around the general theme: "How To Know God". Different aspects of this subject will be discussed and the general public is cordially invited. Man's greatest thought is God. Come and do some great thinking. From 7:15 to 7:30 on Sunday evenings a piano recital is rendered by our younger people. Do not miss these opportunities. Next meeting Sunday evening October 10th.

The pastor's wife, Mrs. Satterlund, is still on the "sick list". Several examinations by Chicago doctors have been given and another examination will be given on Monday morning Sept. 27th at Wesley Hospital, Chicago. It is to be hoped that Mrs. Satterlund might soon be restored to health and strength again.

At the Sunday evening service Sept. 26th the piano recital was given by Miss Lois Ludwig and the speaker of the evening was Miss Iva Hansen. Her subject was "The Growth Of The Idea Of God In The Bible".

PALOS PARK

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Cassell have recently returned from a month's sight-seeing trip to the Pacific coast, via the Soo Line, Canadian Pacific R. R., Southern Pacific, Western Pacific and Rock Island Railroads. Their first stop was at St. Paul and Minneapolis, and they stayed also at Banff, Lake Louise, Sycamoo, Vancouver B.C., Victoria B. C., Seattle, Washington. They motored to Mt. Ranier National Park, where they stayed at Paradise Inn. Mr. Cassell singing a solo at the church service held in the Inn. Then they motored to Tacoma, Pullman, Portland, Oregon.

At San Francisco they were the guests of Mrs. Cassell's sister, Mrs. S. J. Buford, and her daughters, Mrs. Hugh Spark and Mrs. Fred Boyd. It was a delightful meeting, the sisters not having met for twenty years.

Mr. Cassell describes their trip as follows: "We found our trip in the West to have its many charms, but feel that in our attempt to describe it, we are taking considerable liberty with Nature's gift, for seeing the West should not be undertaken in so short a space of time, we being away only one month.

We found our journey across the country to Medicine Hat to be monotonous with the unvarying naked plains, which were sorely in need of rain, having been without any rainfall for two months. We motored in a sight-seeing bus in the Twin cities, St. Paul and Minneapolis, and found them a beautiful pair of twins, and so well groomed and alike that any mother might well be proud of them. Banff, has an indescribable charm, and struck us as the most beautiful place we visited. We were especially delighted with the flower garden. The head gardener, a Mr. Frank Lowe of Wolverhampton, England is a delightful gentleman, and it did not take me long to feel quite at home with him, for we were born within a few miles of each other. Lake Louise is to many, more lovely than Banff, and at first sight seemed so to us, but it did not wear as well with us as the former. Vancouver is a typical seaport town, and will I believe be eventually the New York of the Western Coast. Here you see most all races of people, and a kindly blending of British and American flags. We saw some members of the Famous Coldstream Guards Band of London, England, and asked them how they liked it here to which the reply was, that they don't give you a chance to find out, for its nothing but go, go, go here. Dear old Waterloo Station will look mighty good to us when we get back!

We took the boat to Victoria, B.C., and the cleanest of all places, with its lovely smooth streets, not over congested, its charming beaches, golf links, well kept gardens and homes with a touch of Old England and just enough of the Oriental to make one think of Rudyard Kipling's poem, "On the Road to Mandalay". We sailed to Seattle from Victoria and Oh, what excitement with the American Prohibition Agents, for everybody's luggage must be examined for any dutiable goods. One is not allowed more than $100 worth of merchandise, but I suspect the real search is for spirits. It was amusing to see the troubled expressions on the faces of some of the passengers and some of them belonged to the gentler sex. Victoria, B. C. is well supplied with spirits and beer which can be had by paying $2.00 license fee. The liquors are dispensed at the government stores where you can take out your license, but it is made clear to you that if you are to do any bootlegging, your supply will be cut off. There are no saloons in Victoria, but they have "beer parlors" just outside the city limits, where you can get good draft beer for ten cents a glass or twenty-five cents a bottle, which must be drunk on the premises; no spirits are to be purchased in these places.

Seattle, like Vancouver, is alive with visitors. The U. S. Pacific Fleet and the Elks are here and the whole town throngs with U.S. sailors. Many of the sailors are Chinese, and such dapper little fellows they are! Some of the sailors are going along, strung out in fours and sixes, with their arms about each other's necks, then again marching along in lock step fashion and seemingly so happy to get shore leave. No rowdiness however was displayed among any of our boys, and they were all the pink of neatness, their faces reflecting a resplendent pride of service to their beloved country. Seattle is built on a hill and one wonders how auto drivers make them.

Portland, like Seattle, is a fast growing city, and like all the cities on the west coast, has a lovely balmy climate. I used to remark to Mrs. Cassell, just feel this air, and would rub my fingers together like a woman feeling the texture of a fine piece of satin. However it rained before we left Portland, and very thankful, the people were for it had not rained for 58 days.

It was a long train ride to San Francisco, some twenty-seven hours. We were just in time to see the Pacific Fleet come in thru Golden Gate, where one gets a very fine view from the "Cliff House" looking outward to the sea. We could see seventy fishing vessels of various types from our lookout. There is a very fine aquarium in Golden Gate Park, where the fishes are so well arranged that one feels reluctant to leave such a fascinating set of sea beauties. It was amusing to see the brown seals lounging on the rock in Golden Gate, playing and romping like big boys, pushing one another into the sea and scrambling up the rocks to be pushed in again.

Oh, what invigorating air, every body has such a lovely natural complexion here, that there is no need of cosmetics, although even here some of the girls try to improve on Nature's glorious handwork.

Salt Lake City, differed largely from San Francisco, the homes and business houses being built almost entirely of brick and stone, while the resident section of the former is built mostly of wood, which is treated in many styles, many of them of stucco in Spanish architecture. Salt Lake city buildings look as firm as the rock on which the city is built. The population of the city is about 42 per cent Mormon, altho polygamy is no longer practised. A lovely monument to Brigham Young is erected near the famous Temple Tabernacle. We visited the State Capitol of Utah and sat in the reception room where President Wilson, the Prince of Wales and the Prince and Princess of Sweden recently were received. It is a lovely room, the decorations alone costing $75,000.00. It was however designed by a Chicago architect. There was a large attendance at the Organ Recital which is given every day at the Tabernacle, where the acoustics are so perfect that one can actually hear a pin drop at the farthest end of this large building. There are three organists who alternate at the Organ, and altho we sat some 200 feet away from it, it sounded as tho it were coming from all directions and at times the volume seemed more than one could stand for any length of time.

Denver, Colorado, was hot and we were wearying of our journey and were quite willing to wish good-bye to Pike's Peak, for it seemed that there was no end to the mountains, and the Royal Gorge just about filled us up. The Corn fields of Iowa looked mighty refreshing to us as did the fields of Illinois, and the first real railroad ride was on the "Wabash Dummy" where we were allowed to raise our windows and get some real fresh air on our way back to home in Palos Park."

NEW LENOX

The Parent-Teacher Association of New Lenox held their first meeting of this school year in the public school, last Friday evening.

There was a good attendance and an enjoyable program rendered which was: piano solo by Miss Edith Wilson, vocal solo by Miss Marjorie Beadle, several readings by Miss Emma Strassburg. Each teacher gave a short talk which was well received.

New Lenox school has three teachers this year instead of two as formerly. They are: Mr. Gore, Principal, Miss McFarlan and Mrs. Miller. Ninety pupils attend the school now, which is more than capacity and it is felt a new school building is needed very much.

The dues of the Association were raised this year from 25c to 50c a member per year. Following are the list of officers: President, Mr. Perry Robinson, Vice Pres., Mrs. Wm. Sayers, Secretary, Mrs. Edna Beadle and Treasurer, Mrs. A. Swanson.

Mrs. Fred Gould is slowly improving at Silver Cross hospital. The annual evening party of the New Lenox Home Improvement Club will be held in Grange hall Wednesday evening October 26th. This is the time when the ladies entertain their husbands, children and sweethearts.

Know Your Cook Book, Girls, Advice of Diva

Margery Maxwell, prima donna with the Chicago Civic and Ravinia opera companies, and who enjoys the distinction of being among the first American girls to be recognized in grand opera circles, takes particular pride in her culinary skill. Cooking, in her estimation, is a fine art which is rapidly being lost.

Margery Maxwell.

"Doubtless one of the big reasons for this condition is that modern young men don't expect the girls they marry to know much about cooking," said Miss Maxwell.

"In the future, before man pops the question, he's going to find out whether the girl knows what calories are and whether she's wise to the elements of a balanced diet."

"A few questions before the minister asks, 'Do you take this woman?' would save a thousand recriminations later."

There are certain dishes to which Miss Maxwell is partial. As she explains them, they are readily prepared. Miss Maxwell uses for Maryland Chicken.

Two 2 1/2 lb. chickens (broilers)	1 cup water
Salt	2 eggs
Pepper	Fine bread crumbs
1 cup evaporated milk diluted with	Fat
	1-3 cup butter
	1 tsp. salt
	Dash pepper
	2 tbsp. flour

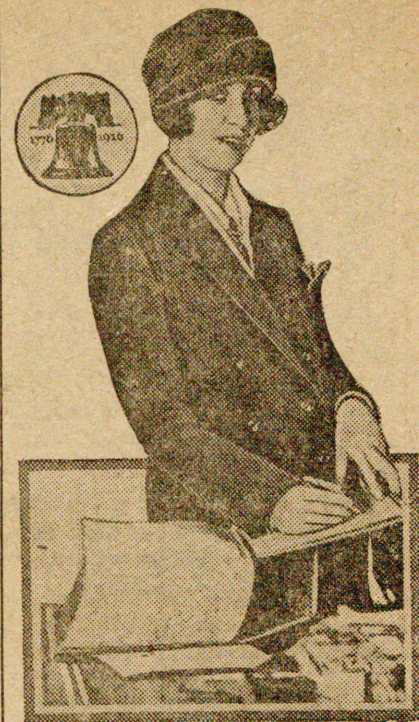

Dress, clean and cut up chickens. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in crumbs, egg, and crumbs. Place in a well-oiled dripping pan, and bake twenty minutes in a 450-degree F. oven, then reduce the temperature to 350 degrees F. and cook until tender, about twenty minutes longer. Baste every ten minutes during cooking with 1/2 cup melted butter. Remove to platter and pour around a cream sauce made of fat in dripping pan, the flour, diluted milk, salt and pepper.

Asparagus en Fri.

1 bunch fresh asparagus	1/2 cup water
6 rounds toast	2 tbsp. butter
6 poached eggs	2 tsp. flour
1/2 cup evaporated milk diluted with	1 tsp. salt
	Pepper
	1/2 cup grated cheese

Prepare a white sauce of the butter flour, salt, pepper and diluted milk. Cook the asparagus in boiling salted water. Drain and add to white sauce. Place a poached egg in center of toast. Pour asparagus around the egg and sprinkle grated cheese over top of all. Serve at once. Served with

PRONUNCIATION AID

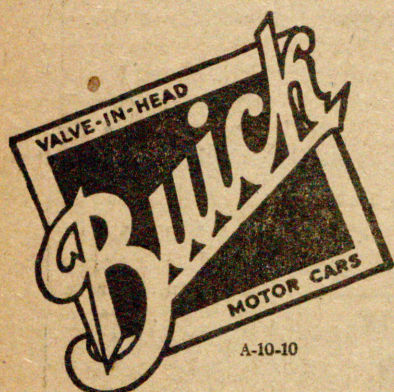

June Webster, descendant of the famous lexicographer, Noah Webster, presents a copy of her ancestor's work to the Publicity Department of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition Association to help them in pronouncing properly the name of the big events which opens June 1 to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. There are many types of pronunciations heard but there is just one proper way Noah says. It is "Ses-ikwuh-ten-ten-nial" with the accent on the first syllable of the "Sesqui" and on the second syllable of the "centennial."

THE motor car industry was startled when Buick presented the new Buick with an engine vibrationless beyond belief.

If you have driven this great new car, with this remarkable engine, you know why.

Its fluid smoothness makes other motor cars seem rough, harsh, noisy.

People who have driven Buicks for years and people who have owned much more expensive cars, are captivated by the luxury of this one.

Break Cake on Bride's Head

It was the custom of the Romans, 2,000 years ago, to break the wedding cake over the head of the bride as she entered her new home. The breaking of the cake was part of a solemn ceremony, and was said to be peculiarly impressive. A similar custom prevails in some sections of Scotland, where a bannock is broken above the head of the young wife as she, for the first time, enters her new home.

Poetic Intoxicant

A new intoxicant has appeared in Japan. In the precincts of a shrine at Kamado in Japan the other day a policeman on patrol discovered what he took to be a corpse. He telephoned to the village office for a coffin, which was at once sent, and the body put in. On the way to the village office, however, the corpse in the coffin revived and began to sing and dance, to the alarm of the bearers. It was later ascertained that he was a young man, aged twenty-three, who had been made intoxicated by viewing the cherry blossoms.

BARÉE, Son of Kazan

It was then that Barée found himself at the side of Mahegun. She was panting; her red tongue hung from her open jaws; but at his presence she brought her fangs together with a snap and slunk from him into the heart of the wind-run and disappeared. The wolves were in an ugly temper, but Barée did not sense the fact. Nepee had trained him to take to water like an otter, and he did not understand why this narrow river should stop them as it had. He ran down to the water and stood belly deep in it, facing for an instant the horde of savage beasts above him, wondering why they did not follow. And he was black—black! He came among them again, and for the first time they noticed him.

The restless movements of the waters ceased now. A new and wondering interest held them rigid. Fangs closed sharply. A little in the open Barée saw Mahegun, with a big gray wolf standing near her. He went to her again, and this time she remained with flattened ears until he was sniffing her neck. And then, with a vicious snarl, she snapped at him. Her teeth sank deep in the soft flesh of his shoulder, and at the unexpectedness and pain of her attack, he let out a yelp. The next instant the big gray wolf was at him.

Again caught unexpectedly, Barée went down with the wolf's fangs at his throat. But in him was the blood of Kazan, the flesh and bone and sinew of Kazan, and for the first time in his life he fought as Kazan fought on that terrible day at the top of the Sun rock. He was young, he had yet to learn the cleverness and the strategy of the veteran; but his jaws were like the iron clamps with which Pierrot set his bear traps, and in his heart was sudden and blinding rage, a desire to kill that rose above all sense of pain or fear.

That fight, if it had been fair, would have been a victory for Barée, even in his youth and inexperience. In fairness the pack should have waited; it was a law of the pack to wait—until one was done for. But Barée was black; he was a stranger, an interloper, a creature whom they noticed now in a moment when their blood was hot with the rage and disappointment of killers who had missed their prey. A second wolf sprang in, striking Barée treacherously from the flank; and while he was in the snow, his jaws crushing the foreleg of his first foe, the pack was on him en masse.

Such an attack on the young caribou bull would have meant death in less than a minute. Every fang would have found its hold. Barée, by the fortunate circumstance that he was under his first two assailants and protected by their bodies, was saved from being torn instantly into pieces. He knew that he was fighting for his life. Over him the horde of beasts rolled and twisted and snarled; he felt the burning pain of teeth sinking into his flesh; he was smothered; a hundred knives seemed cutting him into pieces; yet no sound—not a whimper or a cry—came from him now in the horror and hopelessness of it all.

It would have ended in another half-minute had the struggle not been at the very edge of the bank. Undermined by the erosion of the spring floods, a section of the bank suddenly gave way, and with it went Barée and the pack. In a flash Barée thought of the water and the escaping caribou. For a bare instant the cave-in had sent him free of the pack, and in that space he gave a single leap over the gray backs of his enemies into the deep water of the stream. Close behind him half a dozen jaws snapped shut on empty air. As it had saved the caribou, so this strip of water shimmering in the glow of the moon and stars had saved Barée.

The stream was not more than a hundred feet in width, but it cost Barée close to a losing struggle to get across it. Until he dragged himself out on the opposite shore, the extent of his injuries was not impressed upon him fully. One hind leg, for the time, was useless; his forward left shoulder was laid open to the bone; his head and body were torn and cut; and as he dragged himself slowly away from the stream, the trail he left in the snow was a red path of blood. It trickled from his panting jaws, between which his tongue was bleeding; it ran down his legs and flanks and belly, and it dripped from his ears, one of which was slit clean for two inches as though cut with a knife. His instincts were dazed, his perception of things clouded as if by a veil drawn close over his eyes. Half dead, he dragged himself on until by chance he came to a clump of dwarf spruce. Into this he struggled, and then he dropped exhausted.

All that night and until noon the next day Barée lay without moving. The fever burned in his blood; it flamed high and swift toward death; then it ebbed slowly, and life conquered. At noon he came forth. He was weak, and he wobbled on his legs. His hind leg still dragged, and he was racked with pain. But it was a splendid day. The sun was warm; the snow was thawing, the sky was like a great blue sea; and the floods of life coursed warmly through Barée's veins. But now, for all time, his desires were changed, and his great quest at an end.

A red ferocity grew in Barée's eyes as he snarled in the direction of last night's fight with the wolves. They were no longer his people. They were no longer of his blood. Never again could the hunt-call lure him or the voice of the pack rouse the old longing. In him there was a thing new-born, an undying hatred for the wolf, a hatred that was to grow in him until it became like a disease in his vitals, a thing ever present and insistent, demanding vengeance on their kind. Last night he had gone to them a comrade. Today he was an outcast. Cut and maimed, bearing with him scars for all time, he had learned his lesson of the wilderness. Tomorrow, and the next day, and for days after that without number, he would remember the lesson well.

Chapter X

At the cabin on the Gray Loon, on the fourth night of Barée's absence, Pierrot was smoking his pipe after a great supper of caribou tenderloin he had brought in from the trail, and Nepee was listening to his tale of the remarkable shot he had made, when a sound at the door interrupted them. Nepee opened it, and Barée came in. Three days and nights of hunger in which he could not hunt because of the leg that dragged had put on him the marks of starvation. Battle-scarred and covered with dried blood-clots that still clung tenaciously to his long hair, he was a sight that drew at last a long breath from Nepee. A queer smile was growing in Pierrot's face as he leaned forward in his chair; and then slowly rising to his feet, and looking closer, he said to Nepee:

"Ventre Saint Gris! Oui, he has been to the pack, Nepee, and the pack turned on him. It was not a two-wolf fight—non! It was the pack. He is cut and torn in fifty places. And—mon Dieu, he is alive!"

In Pierrot's voice there was growing wonder and amazement. He was incredulous, and yet he could not disbelieve what his eyes told him. What had happened was nothing short of a miracle, and for a time he uttered not a word more but remained staring in silence while Nepee spoke from her astonishment to give Barée doctoring and food. After the pain and hunger and treachery of his adventure, it was a wonderful homecoming for Barée. He slept that night at the foot of the Willow's bed. The next morning it was the cool caress of his tongue on her hand that awakened her.

With this day they resumed the comradeship interrupted by Barée's temporary desertion. The attachment was greater than ever on Barée's part. It was he who had run away from the Willow, who had deserted her at the call of the pack, and it seemed at times as though he sensed the depths of his perfidy and was striving to make amends. There was indubitably a very great change in him. He hung to Nepee like a shadow. Instead of sleeping at night in the spruce shelter Pierrot made for him, he made himself a little hollow in the earth close to the cabin door. Pierrot thought that he understood, and Nepee thought that she understood still.

Deodorizing Cigar Box Completely Is Difficult

If the cigar box is made from Spanish cedar, as the good ones are supposed to be made, it would be rather difficult to deodorize it completely, since the odor is due to a resin in the wood which is fairly well distributed throughout the wood structure. If the box is made from some other wood which does not have much natural odor, but which may have taken up some odor from the tobacco, it might be that a thorough airing or perhaps washing with gasoline would remove the odor. The odor of Spanish cedar is due to a volatile oil in the resin, and this oil can be removed at least from the surface of the wood by steaming. Since, however, a very little steaming might warp the box or discolor it, or soften the glue, this method is not practical. Probably long-continued ex-posure to the air and sunlight is the most practical method.

more; but in reality the key to the mystery remained with Barée himself. He no longer played as he had played before he went off alone into the forest. He did not chase sticks, or run until he was winded, for the pure joy of running. His puppyishness was gone. In its place was a great worship and a rankling bitterness, a love for the girl and a hatred for the pack and all that it stood for.

Whenever he heard the wolf-howl, it brought an angry snarl into his throat, and he would bare his fangs until even Pierrot would draw a little away from him. But a touch of the girl's hand would quiet him. In a week or two the heavier snows came, and Pierrot began making his trips over the trap-lines. Nepee had entered into a thrilling bargain with him this winter. Pierrot had taken her into partnership. Every fifth trap, every fifth deadfall, and every fifth poison-bait was to be her own, and what they caught or killed was to bring a bit nearer to realization a wonderful dream that was growing in the Willow's soul. Pierrot had promised. If they had great luck that winter, they would go down together on the last snows to Nelson House and buy the little old organ that was for sale there; and if the organ was sold, they would work another winter, and get a new one.

This plan gave Nepee an enthusiastic and tireless interest in the trap-line. Pierrot impressed on her that it made a comrade and co-worker of her on the trail. That was his scheme: to keep her with him when he was away from the cabin. He knew that Bush McTaggart would come again to the Gray Loon, probably more than once during the winter. He had swift dogs, and it was a short journey. And when McTaggart came, Nepee must not be at the cabin—alone.

Pierrot's trap-line swung into the north and west, covering in all a matter of fifty miles, with an average of two traps, one deadfall, and a poison-bait to each mile. Halfway over this line Pierrot had built a small log cabin, and at the end of it another, so that a day's work meant twenty-five miles. This was easy for Pierrot, and not hard on Nepee after the first few days.

All through October and November they made the trips regularly, making the round every six days, which gave one day of rest at the cabin on the Gray Loon and another day in the cabin at the end of the trail. They were splendid months. Fur was thick, and it was steadily cold without bad storm. Nepee not only carried a small pack on her shoulders in order that Pierrot's load might be lighter, but she trained Barée to bear tiny shoulder-panniers which she manufactured. In these panniers Barée carried the bait.

In at least a third of the total number of traps set there was always what Pierrot called trash—rabbits, owls, whisky-jacks, jays and squirrels. These, with the skin or feathers stripped off, made up the bulk of the bait for the traps ahead.

One afternoon early in December, as they were returning to the Gray Loon, Pierrot stopped suddenly a dozen paces ahead of Nepee and stared at the snow. A strange snowshoe trail had joined their own and was heading toward the cabin. For half a minute Pierrot was silent and scarcely moved a muscle as he stared. The trail came straight out of the north—and off there was Lac Bain. Also they were the marks of large snowshoes, and the stride indicated was that of a tall man. Before Pierrot had spoken, Nepee had guessed what they meant.

"M'sieu the Factor from Lac Bain!" she said.

Barée was sniffing suspiciously at the strange trail. They heard the low growl in his throat, and Pierrot's shoulders stiffened.

"Yes, the M'sieu," he said.

The Willow's heart beat more swiftly as they went on. She was not afraid of McTaggart, not physically afraid; and yet something rose up in her breast and choked her at thought of his presence on the Gray Loon. Why was he there? It was not necessary for Pierrot to answer the question, even had she given voice to it. She knew. The Factor from Lac Bain had no business there—except to see her. The blood burned red in her cheeks as she thought again of that minute on the edge of the chasm when he had almost crushed her in his arms. Would he try that again?

CHIC-O-LAY
Kills Germs
Makes Hens Pay

Mrs. H. Fosbaugh of Amanda, Ohio, writes, "I never used anything as good as Chic-O-Lay for my hens. 25 of them got the roup and got it bad, but Chic-O-Lay cured them sound and well and I did not lose a hen."

PUBLIC SERVICE TO HOLD

OPEN HOUSE NEXT WEEK

Training of scores of Public Service Company employees in the ability to guide parties of visitors through the company's various electric and gas generating stations during Open House Week from Oct. 4—9 inclusive, is occupying the attention of the company's officials. The extent to which inquiries are being received at the company's district headquarters and the General Offices in Chicago, is evidence of the wide-spread public interest in the open house week project. Thousands of visitors were escorted through the company's plants last year and those in charge of this year's arrangements are preparing for a considerably larger attendance, due to the interest growing out of last year's event.

The purpose of Open House Week, according to Charles W. Bradley, Vice President in charge of Public Relations and Service, is to familiarize the general public thruout the company's territory with the organization which furnishes their gas or electric service.

"It is our belief," stated Mr. Bradley recently, "that people are interested in learning something about the manufacture of gas and electricity. From an educational and informative standpoint we feel that the public will welcome this opportunity of visiting one or more of the Company's plants in order to see these essential commodities in the process of being made, and to have the process explained to them."

Thousands of invitations have been mailed to the company's customers in each of which there has been enclosed an attractive complimentary inspection pass and a list of the properties which may be visited

Next Monday night the village board will be asked to approve the concreting of Kirchen Street in the northeast part of town. The street is to be concreted for about 1400 feet, is to be with curbing, width of street 25 feet wide, have a sewer and catch basins and will cost about $16,000 to be paid by special assessment spread over a 10 year period.

Don't forget the bazaar and the supper of the Ladies Aid of the Zion Lutheran church at the Saenger hall the afternoon and evening of October 7th.

George Lorenz, Wm. Funk and Paul Rauboff left the latter part of the week for Henry, Ill., to look over the possibilities of duck hunting in the near future.

A foreigner who has been working on farms in this section was arrested last week for stealing chickens. Among them were some he stole from Henry Foster. He was arraigned in a Blue Island court and was fined $25 and costs which were paid by a friend.

A man about 60 years old giving his name as Olson was found wandering the streets in a dazed condition Wednesday night. He was taken care of by the village officers.

The Luther League meets next Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schreiber of Chicago were guests of the parents of the former, Mr. and Mrs. George Schreiber.

Ladies Aid of the Zion Lutheran church meets week after next.
